

HULBURD WANTS SECOND PLACE.

Well-Known Hyde Park Lawyer Announces His Intention to Enter the Primaries.

Lamoille is the third county to come forward with a candidate for nomination on the Republican state ticket at the September primaries, the announcement being made Wednesday of the candidacy of Roger W. Hulburd of Hyde Park for the lieutenant governorship.

Mr. Hulburd is a veteran in public service though for several years he has been devoting himself to his extensive law practice and to his duties as a general agent of the National Life Insurance company. He is probably known to as many Vermonters as any other citizen of the state through his tours on the stump during political campaigns when his talents in oratorical lines have been demanded by the Republican state committee.

Mr. Hulburd is a native of Waterville and was born in 1856. He went in 1882 to Hyde Park, where he has since resided except for a brief period spent in Burlington. He was educated in the People's academy of Hyde Park and is a graduate of the University of Vermont.

His public service, aside from town offices, includes terms as state attorney, trustee of the state industrial school, postmaster and member of both branches of the general assembly. He is a member of the examining board of the Vermont bar association. In making announcement of his candidacy for the second place on the Republican state ticket Attorney Hulburd says:

"The art of soliciting official position for one's self is a fine one and I have never acquired it. I wish, however, to announce that I shall be a candidate for lieutenant governor at our September primaries. In making this announcement, I am not moved to set forth in detail my political creed."

"I believe, however, in Vermont, proud of her past and confident as to her future. I believe in the Republican party, an proud of its record, and believe that it has a future that will be even greater and grander than its past. I believe in the gospel of business, that labor should have its rights and capital an opportunity, and that we should so legislate that we leave unhindered every honest industry and enterprise. The man of force makes room for himself and room for others. I believe in leaving undone the things that ought not to be done—not every change is an improvement."

"If elected to the office sought, I shall come to it with no 'outstanding alliances.' I shall recognize no master but my state, nor shall I be embarrassed by a gnawing hunger for further political preferment. My ambition will be to keep within the prescribed duties of the office and be an acceptable lieutenant-governor."

WEEKS WANTS SECOND PLACE.

Middlebury Man Announces That He Will Enter the Primaries Next September.

The second announcement of a candidacy for a state office on the Republican ticket next fall is made by Judge John E. Weeks of Middlebury, who aspires to the lieutenant governorship, Judge Weeks, who has been chairman of the penal board for a number of years, is speaker of the house of representatives.

Judge Weeks, who is a native of Salisbury, located in Middlebury in 1896. Though his business has been largely in farming and mercantile lines he has devoted himself to the public service much of the time since he was elected a member of the General assembly in 1888. He was a member of the senate in 1896 and was returned in 1912 to the lower branch of the assembly.

In 1892-94 he was assistant judge of Addison county and in 1898 was appointed a trustee of the Vermont Industrial school. He was state commissioner in 1906 and since the latter year has been chairman of the penal board. He has held most of the town and village offices.

LEAGUE TO ENFORCE PEACE.

Assemblage to Be Held in Washington in May — Board of Trade Is Asked to Send Delegates.

Carl S. Hopkins, secretary of the Brattleboro board of trade has received a communication from ex-President William H. Taft, asking that delegates be sent from here to the first annual national assemblage of the League to Enforce Peace, to be held in Washington May 20 and 27. Mr. Taft is the president of the league.

With a view to having the country's business men well represented at the league's first annual conference, Mr. Taft has sent a like invitation to all the commercial organizations which have a membership in the chamber of commerce of the United States.

The national chamber of commerce adopted through a referendum held recently, an international peace plan similar in character to that outlined in the platform of the League to Enforce Peace, which consists of the following four proposals:

An international council of conciliation.

An agreement to use the joint armed and economic forces of all the signatory powers to compel a submission of international disputes to the court or council before beginning hostilities or declaring war.

An international code.

The point of difference between the Taft league's plan and that of the national chamber of commerce, lies in the third proposal, the latter organization having failed to adopt by a two-thirds vote, the "joint armed force" clause. The idea of an economic boycott, however, was sustained.

Mr. Taft, in his letter received here sums up the situation as follows:

"The commercial organizations constituting the Chamber of Commerce of the United States by their votes on referendum number eleven expressed approval of the fundamental principle of the League to Enforce Peace, indeed all the specific recommendations excepting one were carried by majorities in excess of two-thirds. Among the recommendations thus adopted was one favoring the organization of a system of commercial and financial non-intercourse, to be applied to a nation which entered the proposed league of nations and then went to war without first submitting a difference which arose to an agreed-upon tribunal."

"The one recommendation which proved insufficient to compel nations to submit to arbitration was the proposition that which provided for the use of concerted military force in the event that commercial non-intercourse proved insufficient to compel nations which have proceeded to war to desist from military operations and submit the questions at issue to an international court or council of conciliation."

"Whatever may be the ultimate decision of the league of nations when instituted upon this point, it would seem that for present practical purposes the League to Enforce Peace may be looked upon as an agency through which your organization may work for the common program embraced within the approval of the referendum vote."

"It is from this point of view, therefore, that your organization is asked to send a delegation to the annual meeting of the league."

CLASHES WITH MEXICANS.

Dodd's and Brown's Cavalrymen Make Successful Attack, But Do Not Get Bandit Leader.

The American troops in Mexico have clashed with the Villa bandits, the most important engagement taking place at the San Geronimo ranch, where 400 cavalrymen under the command of Col. George A. Dodd killed 32 men, making a surprise attack upon the main band of Villa's force while they were resting at noon, about 24 hours after they had massacred the Carranza garrison of 12 men at Guerrero, Dodd's men rescued the bandits' lives from the point where they were camping. It was stated that Villa was shot in the leg and seriously wounded, but it is generally believed that this report was sent out as a ruse to deceive the Americans. Col. Dodd's men made a forced march of 25 miles in 17 hours before making the attack. Four or five Americans were hit by Mexican bullets, but none were killed.

Col. W. C. Brown, with a smaller cavalry force, caught another band of bandits and is said to have killed 20 to 40. All of the reports are to the effect that Villa is fleeing to the southward. The Mexican military revolutionists are expected to transport supplies, is of little use, trains running but once a week over a track in poor condition. Congress has made authorization for sending to the border 108 more motor trucks to be used in maintaining a line of communication between New Mexico, to the American army base near Casas Grandes.

A force of Carranza troops are reported to have slain 42 Villa followers who attempted to surprise the garrison of a small town near Tuxtepec. Manuel Bana, a Villa general, and a number of his men are also said to have been killed by Mexican government troops.

VERDICT AGAINST DR. WILKINS.

Miss Myrtle Jones Brought Action of Tort in Greenfield Court—Was Burned at Sanitarium.

A verdict of $1,500 for Miss Myrtle Jones of Riverside, Mass., in her action against Dr. George Wilkins of Greenfield, Mass., marked the closing day of the March sitting of superior court in Greenfield Friday. This case, an action of tort brought for $10,000, had occupied the court for two days. Miss Jones, about a year ago underwent treatment at a sanitarium conducted by the defendant at Wilmington, and during this treatment she was severely burned, due, she claimed, to negligence on the part of the defendant.

The defense was that the burns were not caused through negligence but by an unavoidable accident. This case was the most important of the civil cases tried during the sitting.

Dr. Wilkins formerly came to Brattleboro to obtain patients and later had headquarters on the island.

ROOSEVELT'S HAT IN RING.

Announces the Terms Under Which He Would Be Candidate for Presidency — For Preparedness.

Col. Roosevelt's hat is in the ring. He announced the terms under which he would be the Republican candidate for President in telling a political caller who expects to be a delegate to the Republican national convention not to nominate him if he expects the colonel to "pussfoot" on a single issue he has raised or unless he thinks the nomination is in the interests of the United States.

This visitor was a man from a nearby state who came to Sagamore Hill saying that he expected to be a candidate for congress as well as a delegate to the G. O. P. convention. Then, in hopes of the colonel's support of his congressional candidacy, the optimistic pilgrim added: "You know, colonel, I may make up my mind that we'll have to nominate you."

"Well," began the colonel, pausing a moment to gather his strength before letting loose, "now let me give you a piece of advice. If you have any doubts on the subject, don't nominate me."

"Get it perfectly clear in your head that if you nominate me it mustn't be because you think it is in my interest, but because you think it is in your interest and the interest of the Republican party, and because you think it is in the interest of the United States to do so."

"And more than that, don't you do it if you expect me to pussfoot on any single issue I have raised. Don't be for me unless you are prepared to say that every citizen of this country has got to be pro-United States first, last and all the time, and not pre-anything else at all, and that we are for every good American everywhere, whatever his birthplace or creed and wherever he now lives, and that in return we demand that he be an American and nothing else, with no hyphen about him."

"Every American citizen must be for America first and for no other country even second, and he hasn't any right to be in the United States at all if he has any divided loyalty between this country and any other."

"I don't care a rap for the man's creed or birthplace or national origin so long as he is straight United States. I am for him if he is straight United States, and if he isn't I am against him. And don't you nominate me unless you are prepared to take the position that Uncle Sam is to be strong enough to defend his rights and to defend every word of his constitution, these people are, and he can't be strong enough unless he prepares in advance."

"I am not for war. On the contrary I abhor an unjust or a wanton war, and I would use every honorable expedient to avoid even a just war. But I am for war with all my heart and soul in the long run avoid war by making other people believe that you're afraid to fight for your own rights."

"Uncle Sam must never wrong the weak. He must never insult any one or wantonly give cause for offence to either the weak or the strong, and the surest possible way to enable him to keep the peace and to keep it on terms that will enable Americans to hold their heads high and not hang them in shame is for him to be so prepared in advance, and I mean prepared in his own soul as well as with his army and navy, that when he says anything the rest of the world will know that he means it and that he can make it good."

"Don't you try to nominate me unless you think that policy ought to be followed out and followed out for your sake as well as for mine and for the sake of the rest of mankind in the United States. And don't forget that that isn't a course that provokes war; it is the only course that in the long run prevents war and secures national self-respect and guarantees the honor of this country and the rights of its citizens wherever they may be."

MISSIONARY INSTITUTE HERE.

One-Day Session Will Be Held May 19—Strong Team of Speakers Will Come—Officers Chosen.

Rev. Ralph A. Sherwood of Keene, N. H., member of the New England territorial committee of the missionary education movement, was in town yesterday afternoon for a conference with the ministers and missionary workers of this place. The purpose of the meeting was to discuss the advisability of holding here a one-day institute for furthering missionary education.

The missionary education movement, an interdenominational clearing house on missionary education, is holding a series of 35 such conferences in New England, and it was decided to hold such a gathering here Friday, May 19. Invitations will be sent to the churches in the surrounding territory to send their missionary workers to the gathering.

A team of four expert workers will be sent here by the education movement. Two of the number will be Rev. Harry Wade Hicks of New York, general secretary of the movement, and a forceful speaker, and Miss Mabel E. Emerson of Boston, assistant to secretary Brewer of the American Board of Commissioners for Foreign Missions. A missionary also will be a member of the team and there will be one other worker.

The day's program will include conferences for pastors and missionary workers, a women's meeting, story telling hour for boys and girls and a popular mass meeting in the evening.

The following chairmen of committees were appointed: General chairman and chairman of committee on women's mass meeting, Miss Florence Hemmaway-Wells, chairman of committee on story telling hour, Mrs. F. L. Smith; chairman of committee on mass meeting, Rev. T. W. O'Neil; chairman of publicity committee, Rev. G. E. Tomkinson. The members of the committee will be chosen by the respective chairmen.

ASK $5,000 RANSOM FOR BOY.

Albany Letter Demands Sum for "Billy" Clark, Missing 11 Days — Picture in Movies.

A ransom of $5,000 has been demanded by the kidnappers of Billy Clark, 8 years old, who has been missing eleven days. The demand for the money came by mail and completely prostrated the last boy's aunt, Mrs. John Shea, of Albany, N. Y., his guardian. The letter read:

To the Owner: If you need your child he will be returned if you put a price on him for $5,000. If not he will be killed by.

"I am now sure Billy is alive and is being held for a large sum of money," said Mrs. Shea.

Billy Clark disappeared while waiting in an afternoon crowd to gain admission to an Albany moving picture theatre. A minute before he had been standing at the side of his aunt, Roy Scouts joined the police in the hunt at once. The woods to the west of the city were scoured without success. Police of nearby cities were notified, but nothing was heard of the boy. Scores of reports that he was seen in different places were traced down and the camps of several bands of gypsies who recently passed through Albany were searched, but in vain.

The letter is the only word indicating that the boy is still alive. It was immediately turned over to Capt. Lasch, chief of Albany detective bureau. With the postal authorities, he is trying to trace the source of the missive.

The persistence of stories that the boy was last seen going in the direction of the Country club, in the western part of the city, caused the police to renew their search in that section.

A camp of foreigners was visited, but all of the occupants professed ignorance of the boy's whereabouts. The police are inclined to regard the letter as serious, scouting the idea that it was written by a practical joker. They believe that the supposed kidnappers are not aware that the boy's guardians are unable to pay the sum demanded in the letter.

At all the Albany theatres there is shown at each performance a moving picture of the boy's sister holding his portrait in her hand, with the appeal "won't you help me find my lost brother."

The disappearance of the boy has frightened parents in Albany and many children are being kept in the homes.

STOLEN GOODS RECOVERED.

Part of Property Taken from O. O. Ware's Store in Wilmington—Tony Alavrio in Newfare Jail.

State's Attorney O. B. Hughes was called to Wilmington Tuesday to represent the state in a burglary charge against Tony Alavrio, who is suspected of having entered the general store of O. O. Ware of Wilmington Jan. 2.

The arrest was made by Deputy Sheriff Howe of Wilmington, who has been assisting in the investigation of the burglary, and who searched the man's tenement and found about 25 heavy college sweaters, which were not taken from Mr. Ware's store, also several watches and other articles which were identified as being Mr. Ware's property.

On learning that Alavrio was arrested, Steve Brazors, who lived in the same tenement, left his work at Mountain Mills and has not been seen since.

Brazors is five feet eight inches tall, weighs 160 pounds, has black hair, is smooth shaven and wears a dark suit, working clothes in which he had been doing cement work.

Frank Ayduk, brother-in-law of Alavrio, also left Wilmington yesterday afternoon for Little Falls, N. Y., and had a trunk checked for that place. Officers in Little Falls were asked to secure the trunk and arrest Ayduk.

The fact that the sweaters found were not taken from Mr. Ware's store leads to the suspicion that they may have been taken wrongfully somewhere else. At the time of the Ware store burglary other articles, rings, watches, woolen shirts, union suits, etc., to the value of over $200 were stolen.

Alavrio was arraigned Wednesday before Justice F. H. Fitch of Wilmington, acting municipal judge. State's Attorney O. B. Hughes appearing for the state.

He waived examination and was held under $1,000 bonds for his appearance for trial at the term of Windham county court which begins in Newfare next week. He was unable to furnish bail and was taken to Newfare jail by Deputy Sheriff Walter E. Howe.

The 25 sweaters found in his tenement, and other property belonging to Wilmington people, are still in the hands of the officers, the owners not having been found.

CLAREMONT HAS FOUR FIRES.

All Between 2.15 Thursday Afternoon, March 30, and 1.15 Next Morning—Round House Fire Serious.

Four separate and distinct fires between 2.15 p. m., March 30 and 1.15 next morning in Claremont, N. H., have caused the suspicion, as yet unconfirmed by any evidence, that a fire bug is at work in the town.

The first of the fires was discovered in the attic of a boarding house. It was extinguished by the firemen after the upper part of the house had been badly gutted.

The second alarm was for a fire in the barn owned by J. B. Bartlett on East street. This was discovered at 6.15 o'clock in the evening and the barn and the ell of the house adjoining were practically destroyed. The house was saved, although damaged by water.

The most disastrous fire was discovered in the round house of the Boston & Maine railroad at 11 o'clock at night. This fire totally destroyed the building, three locomotives and a baggage car which were in it. A fourth engine which was partly in the round house with steam up, was run out to safety.

The last of the series of fires was Friday morning at 1.15 when the house and barn of Stephen Breck at West Claremont were destroyed with most of their contents.

No cause is known for any of the fires.

EPISCOPAL MISSION IN APRIL.

Services Each Evening at 7.30 as Part of Nation Wide Movement Inaugurated by Convention.

In the last general convention of the Episcopal church a resolution was passed providing for a nation wide preaching mission to be held in August or Lent this year. The movement has met with a great response throughout the Episcopal church, and all of the large cities and many of the smaller ones, as well as the mission fields of the west, have participated in this movement. It is the first time the church has attempted anything like a nation wide mission, although missions have been held everywhere from time to time. Some years ago, it will be remembered by many, Bishop Hall preached missions here.

The rector of St. Michael's Episcopal church, Rev. Nelson Kellogg, expects to preach one to be given here from next Sunday to April 14, inclusive. The mission services will be held every evening at 7.30 o'clock. The service consists of hymns, prayers, a sermon and an instruction, followed by an after meeting or prayer meeting. The whole service lasts about an hour.

THE PUTNEY COLUMN.

HARLAN P. FARR DEAD.

Was Prominent and Successful Farmer and Former Representative.

Harlan Page Farr, 80, for the greater part of his life one of the most successful farmers in southeastern Vermont and a man who had been prominent in the official affairs of this town, died in his home Monday afternoon at 1.30 o'clock. He had been seriously ill about two weeks.

Mr. Farr was born in Windham, April 10, 1836, and would have been 80 years of age this month. In early childhood he moved to Westminister with the family of his father, Ivah N. Farr. At the age of 15 years he was a salesman for silk between the times of greatest activity on his father's farm.

When he was 20 years old he bought his father's farm and went to farming. He married, at the age of 22, Lucetta M. Whitney of Westminister and during the war he bought a fine farm of 200 acres near Westminister lower street, which was his home for 18 years.

He continued to buy farms and at one time owned some 1,000 acres in the vicinity of his home. He was able to conduct all of these farms successfully. In the last few years he had resided in Putney village, but never lost his love for farming and every year he had ploughed a mile of his farm on the Putney meadows.

His East Putney meadow farm contains 250 acres, including 80 acres of meadow, and was one of the best farms in the section. He made it a practice for years to grow several acres of tobacco and was interested in sheep raising.

He had been honored by his fellow townsmen with election to most of the offices within their electoral gift. He served the town as representative in the legislature in 1886. He served four terms as first selectman and was elected and re-elected many times. He was an up and down business man who had the respect and esteem of all who knew him.

Mrs. Farr died in 1897, leaving two children. They are Frank H. Farr of Westminister, like his father a successful farmer, and Mrs. Milan Mason of Springfield, Mass.

Mr. Farr was also his second wife, who was Mrs. E. Louise Perry of Champlain, N. Y., one brother, Robert, of Westminister, and two sisters, Mrs. Ellen Whitney of Putney and Mrs. Sarah Finton of Dakota.

The funeral was held at the house Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock and was largely attended. Rev. K. E. Davis officiated. The burial took place in the family lot in the Westminister cemetery.

Mrs. Barron of Quechee is a guest of Mrs. Frank Hewitt.

Dana J. Bugbee of Boston has been a guest for a few days of his brother, Dr. L. H. Bugbee.

Dr. Harrison of Mount Hermon will preach in the Congregational church next Sunday morning.

Miss Lucien Reed of Brattleboro visited briefly with her cousin, Mrs. E. E. Wood, Saturday.

Nelson W. Locke of Brattleboro was in town Wednesday and attended the funeral of H. P. Farr.

Mrs. Justin Wheeler and two daughters came Thursday to join Mr. Wheeler at J. B. Derry's.

Mrs. Dorris Lee of Brattleboro was a guest over Sunday of her grandmother, Mrs. Flora P. Cole.
